Guidance for Prospective Students

Information provided in this guide is separated by program type and organized by state location for ease of reference. The programs listed include:

- Coordinated Programs in Dietetics (CP)
- Dietetic Internship Programs (DI)
- Didactic Programs in Dietetics (DPD)
- Dietetic Technician Programs (DT)
- Graduate Programs in Nutrition and Dietetics (GP)

To learn more about each program type and additional ACEND-accredited program types, please review the About Accredited Programs webpage.

Important Definitions

- I-20 Forms: Also known as “Certificate of Eligibility”; document issued by a U.S. educational institution that certifies an international student’s eligibility to apply for an F-1 student visa.
 - While some universities do not provide the I-20 forms for international students, universities may still accept students who have already obtained an I-20 form. Additionally, while some universities may distribute the I-20 forms, it is possible the program may not accept international students as this depends on program-specific policies. Please contact the program director of the program you are interested in to learn more about the application process.
- International Credential Evaluation/Foreign Degree Evaluation Report: A generated report by a Commission on Dietetic Registration (CDR) approved agency used to validate U.S. educational equivalency of higher education degree(s). For a full list of CDR approved agencies, please click here.
- International Students: Refers to anyone who lives outside of the U.S. and its territories, interested in pursuing higher education in the U.S. with a valid student visa. Note: this does not refer to individuals who are U.S. citizens or permanent residents.
- Prior Assessed Learning (PAL) Policy: A program- specific policy regarding an evaluation that grants credit or hours of experience for content or skills that the student/intern has previously mastered.

Additional Resources

ACEND has developed several resources to assist international students navigating admission into ACEND-accredited programs within the U.S. Click the links below for further information:

- ♦ Frequently Asked Questions: Compiled list of frequently asked questions (FAQs) for individuals with foreign degrees.
- ♦ Foreign Degree Evaluation Agencies: Full list of CDR approved evaluation agencies that can validate academic degrees.

Tip #1

Be sure to only use the agencies listed. CDR will not accept transcript evaluations from agencies that are not listed.

Tip #2

Once you choose a CDR-approved agency from the list above, please check with the program you wish to attend in order to ensure the university in which the program is housed accepts transcripts from that agency.

- ♦ International Student Checklist: Provides a step-by-step checklist to help guide international students in becoming Registered Dietitian Nutritionists (RDN) or Nutrition and Dietetic Technician, Registered (NDTR).

Coordinated Programs
